Business Philosophy

Skills development is the changing face of education and training. As a new democracy, South Africa is looking for better ways of educating its people in the hope of creating a competitive economic global environment. It is strategically necessary for companies to invest in the education, training and skills development of its employees. All education, training and development interventions should be aligned to business needs and strategies, comply with relevant legislation and meet the highest possible quality standards. By contributing to the development of a pool of skilled South African workers, companies are supporting the National Skills Development Strategy and the principles of the National Qualifications Framework (NQF).

Every child has the right to high-quality, holistic education and care which forms the critical foundation for further development and learning from childhood into adulthood.

This necessitates the universal availability of high-quality early childhood development and education as a vital strategy to yield personal and long-term benefits to individual children, their families and the society at large.

Early childhood development is an essential component of economic development within the framework of child care services. Changing social and economic needs require parents to enter the labour market. Therefore quality early childhood development service provision is required to meet growing demands in the country, both in urban and rural settings.
